The Inaugural Black Men Matter Young Men's Conference

April 18, 2015 on the Indiana University Purdue University Indianapolis Campus

Indianapolis, In. – The first annual BLACK MEN MATTER Young Men's Conference will kick off Saturday, April 18th 2015 on the Indiana University Purdue University Indianapolis Campus in the Multicultural Center. This event is for young men entering 9th – 12th grade at high schools throughout the city and county. We are partnering with Colleges and Universities throughout Indiana to draw a diverse group of student leaders to join us for the inaugural event.

Black Men Matter Committee is a collective group of concerned men and clergy men in Indianapolis and the surrounding area who care about the young men in our communities enough to respond to the challenges faced daily by presenting the young men with innovative options to assist them along their journey of becoming successful black men.

The conference features a number of prominent speakers from local and state government, corporate America, academia, intercollegiate athletics and many college student leaders.

In breakout sessions, participants will tackle topics that include:

- Making Good Decisions: What does good decision making look like? What are consequences of bad decisions?
- Leadership: How to be the best leaders do? How to be effective and confident?
- Career Exploration: How to prepare for college? How to choose a career?
- Financial Literacy: How to prepare a budget? How to save for the future and enjoy today?

Join us on Saturday, April 18, 2015 at 8:00 a.m. at the IUPUI Multicultural Center 815 W. Michigan Street, Taylor Hall Room 115. Indianapolis, In 46202
